

MyCourseMap WORKSHOP INVITATION

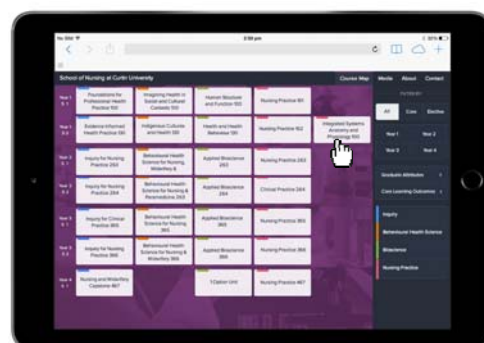

Are we there yet: Making curriculum visible to students

About MyCourseMap

MyCourseMap is a multi-dimensional interactive curriculum map using digital and touch technology that increases transparency and relevance of curricula for students.

We invite you to attend a workshop during which you will have the opportunity to explore MyCourseMap online.

Workshop

Session 1: Discourse around transparency of curriculum (1 hour)

- ▶ Stimulate discourse around students' accessibility to entire curriculum & program learning outcomes
- ▶ Reflect on the way curricula are presented to students
- ▶ Reflect on ways to enhance first year transition & identity
- ▶ Showcase MyCourseMap concept

Session 2: A new way to present visible curriculum (1.5 hour)

- ▶ Create interactive curriculum using MyCourseMap tool
- ▶ Opportunity to pilot MyCourseMap using the comprehensive step-by-step user manual

Who

All academics and professional staff members are welcome to attend the workshop.

When

Date: 19 April 2017

Time: 10.00 am to 12.30pm

Venue: Redgum meeting room, RMIT Building 88, 440 Elizabeth Street, see campus map.

Additional walk-in session for pilot:

19 April, 2.00 pm – 4.00 pm

Venue: as above

RSVP: by 12 April 2017, please contact L.Tee@curtin.edu.au

National Teaching Fellow Associate Professor Lisa Tee

L.Tee@curtin.edu.au

This workshop is undertaken as part of a National Teaching Fellowship. The Fellowship identifies the need to communicate transparent and “visible” curricula to students.

Australian
Learning &
Teaching
Fellows

Australian Government
Department of Education and Training

National Teaching Fellowship Funded by the Australian Government Department of Education and Training.

Curtin University

Curtin University Human Research Ethics Committee (HREC)
has approved this study (HRE2016-0458).